

Trump assassination attempt: separating fact from fiction

Where truth is stranger than fiction...

ARNGRIMR
JUL 16, 2024

♡ 403

💬 219

🔄 41

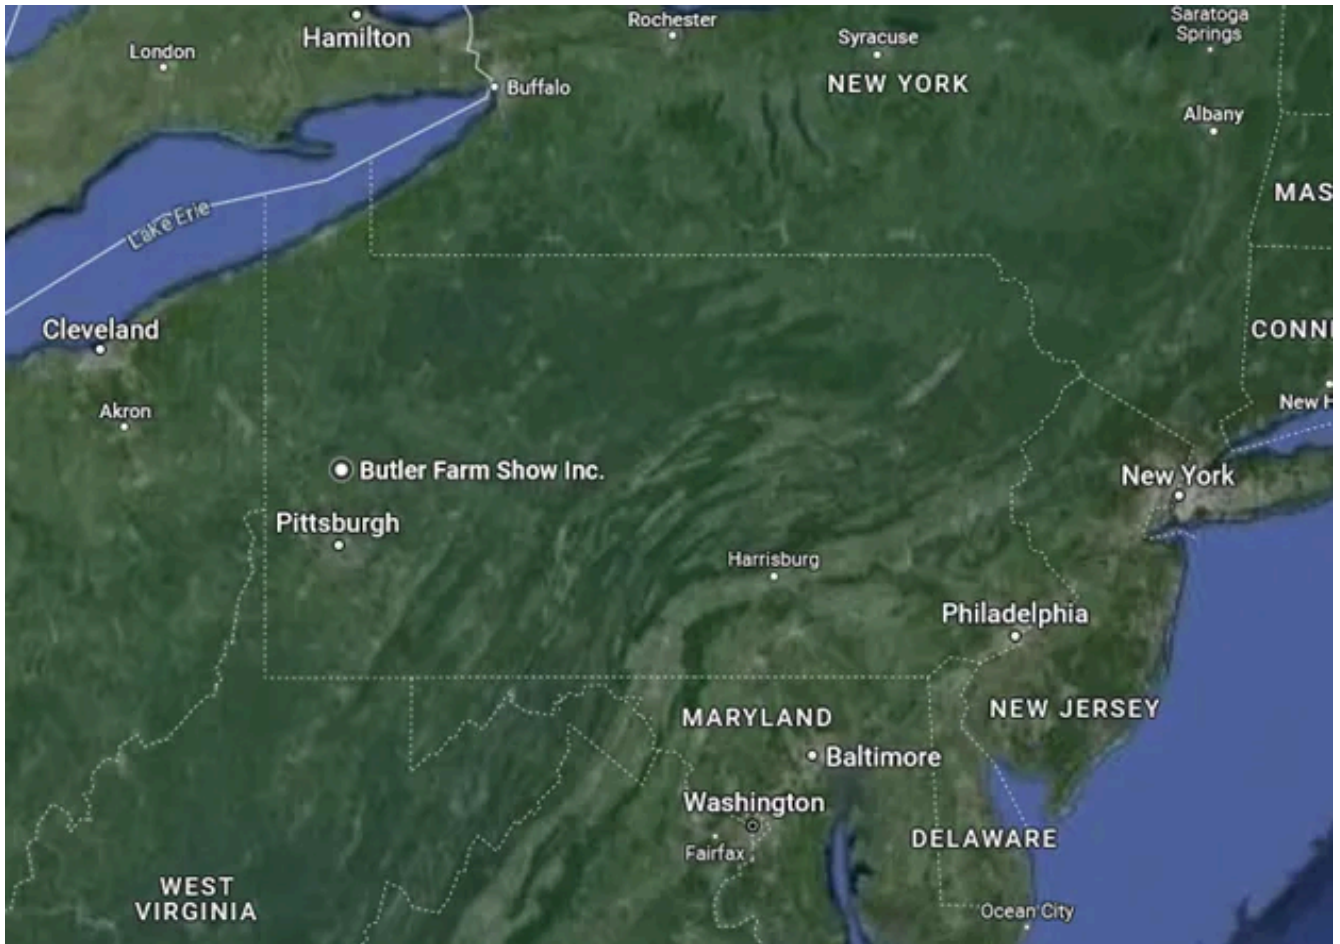

Share

⋮

Let's look at what really happened.

My students know that I love teaching history by map. Maps provide so much information, even before you know anything specific about a country, city, battle, etc. When talking about the events, we need to see, mentally, the place where the event we are talking about took place, and its relation to other relevant places.

Trump's rally was organized on the grounds of Butler Farm Show Inc., in Butler, Pennsylvania, about 40 to 50 minutes due north of Pittsburgh, depending on taking Route 79/279 or State Highway 8.

The general surroundings of the place look as follows:

The long fields, just above Main Street, is where the rally took place.

Here, we see all the main elements. The podium where Trump gave his speech, the cranes with the flag, the bleachers behind Trump, the rooftop where the Secret Service Sniper team was, and roof where the assassin took his shot from.

The following picture by the New York Times shows those main elements everyone talks about, adding the location of the second sniper team, from local police tactical teams.

A lot of speculation can be found online about the actions of the sniper team (specifically the Secret Service Sniper Team, as if there was only 1 such team present), but most speculate. Once you understand the lay of the land, a lot becomes very clear. And new, very damning questions arise.

By overlaying pictures and matching them with the features on a Maxar satellite picture (obtained from Reuters dated June 2, 2023), I was able to recreate a rather exact representation of each location.

Let's look at the story this will tell us already:

Figuring out the position of the assassin, shows something very remarkable: both sniper teams could not see the assassin, because a tree was in the way. (Look back up, two pictures, the one with the cranes and the bleachers: see the tree, and how it is widest roughly at the height where the shooter would have been?) The shooter, however, had an unrestricted view on the podium, wherever on the roof he would have positioned himself (see dotted red line from edge roof). This explains the fact that neither sniper team did anything. They couldn't do anything, as they didn't see anything.

One of the videos of the rally goes that showed the shooter on the roof gives another important clue: about 19 seconds in, you hear a man yell "He's turning this way!" followed almost immediately with a final 'pop', with a different sound than the previous pops. As the assassin crawled to his right, likely to get a better view of Trump, a new angle away from the Secret Service agents covering him, away from the boom of the first forklift with the speaker array, the counter-sniper team finally got a bead on him, and immediately took the shot. Incredible shooting!

That the assassin moved to his right, is human instinct: when you see your target disappear towards your left, behind an obstacle, our instinct tells us to move right to clear that obstacle and regain our line of sight... If he had turned to the left, he could have regained line of sight, as well, while staying out of view of the sniper teams! The obstacle could also be the large black box (?) visible to the left of the podium, between the 'loop' of the red walkway towards the podium:

Looking at the above reconstruction, you can see that the other forklift that got hit in the hydraulics, lowering its speaker array as a result while spraying fluid from a pinpoint hole, was almost directly behind the podium, in a straight line with the shooter, further validating my reconstruction above.

It also shows how Trump, by turning towards the main billboard with the immigration graph behind the left bleacher (left, when looking from the audience), had his head indeed fully parallel to the view line of the assassin, allowing the bullet to simply graze his head, hitting only his ear, and nothing else.

Understanding that angle, helps understand that the shooter had an almost perfect shot lined up, hitting trump roughly halfway between center of his turned head and the edge of his head, together with his shoulders moving slightly forward to look behind him, to the right. But just that small turn was enough to turn that assured hit into a near miss, hitting only the ear lobe. How could he have missed? It was a much better shot than we realize!

So this is the timeline: the shooter crawled in position, invisible to both sniper teams. He had a clear line of sight, and took a shot, hit Trump's ear, followed by 2 fast shots, less carefully aimed (surprised that he missed that first shot?), that then missed. Trump ducked (he likely heard the bullets whistle by, snapping him to move and take cover), and as the Secret Service agents dove onto the President, protecting him with their bodies, the assassin fired a quick volley of about 5 shots, almost as if in a panic, which could not have been properly aimed. Then after a few seconds, a last, single shot rings out, from a different rifle.

The second volley of shots is likely the volley that killed the bystanders: aimed lower, trying to adjust for the lower position of Trump who had ducked, as the Secret was covering him. Now, however, the raised part of the first bleacher to the left was in the way, and the people on top of it... Trying to adjust his position to get a better view, the assassin, unaware of this fact, left his protected area of 'invisibility', was spotted by sniper team 2, and instantly taken out.

This solves a whole lot of questions about the sniper teams themselves, and their perceived inaction. They did not shoot, as they had no clear target: the tree was in the way! Only at the last moment, when the assassin moved, could a shot be taken.

This move likely explains why the gun and the body were several feet apart, after the assassin was killed:

This leaves new questions: what communication was there between the sniper teams and other Law Enforcement on the ground, and vice versa? Apparently, the sniper teams were aware of the presence of a suspect, likely knew he was armed, but, as I showed above, could not see him because of the tree. Why was there no other sniper team to cover the angles both sniper teams behind Trump could not see? Why were both sniper teams positioned at the same side of their protectee, thereby leaving a whole lot of angles and areas uncovered?

A lot of the other questions remain unanswered. How did the assassin get there? Why was there so little Secret Service protection? Why were at least some of the Secret Service agents present looking so hopelessly under-qualified and inexperienced? Etc.

To answer some of the questions I saw online: the main sniper team, with 'police' visible on the back, is indeed part of Secret Service. Blowing up that image shows that there is small print below the words 'police', stating 'Secret Service'.

And the idea that there was a second bullet hitting the chest, that was stopped by Trump's vest, is also false. A closer look reveals that what looked like a hole is only the shadow created by a fold in the suit of the agent in front of Trump.

Now, onto some other, and serious, problems:

Bad Kitty Unleashed 🦁 🟩

@pepesgrandma

Bombshell: Secret Service Admit To Replacing Trump's Permanent Detail With 'Temporary Agents' For Butler Rally

Former president Donald J. Trump's Secret Service permanent detail were stood down for the Butler, Pennsylvania rally on Saturday, according to an admission by Secret Service spokesman Anthony Guglielmi.

The site agent, who was in charge of putting all security measures for a particular event in place, was a "relatively new agent" from the Pittsburgh office with "limited experience,"

We have seen the images of the Secret Service agent who was woefully too short to adequately protect Donald Trump, with his towering 6 feet 3 inches. Thanks to this oversight, however, we now have that absolutely iconic picture, with Trump completely overshadowing the short agent, when they all got up again, pump his fist in the air to signal the crowd that he was alive, and in good spirit. "Fight! Fight! Fight!"

Or the other agent, fumbling with her handgun, unable to holster it. Now, the stress and panic of the moment can overtake anyone, but the better trained, the more experienced, the less you should see such fumbling on what should be a very well-trained move, down to muscle memory. Or worse, hiding while others jump on Donald Trump to protect him with their bodies. Was she really qualified for this personal protective detail? Fully trained, and aware of what her first responsibility was?

Phil Holloway ✈️ 🔒 @PhilHollowayEsq · 1h

Is she hiding while her fellow agents form a human shield around President Trump?

Is this what I'm seeing here?

Some commentators are merciless:

DC_Draino  @DC_Draino · 50m

Says a lot

But, as any good meme, it has a kernel of truth.

Kimberly Cheatle, the Secret Service Director, had made it her goal to transform the Secret Service following the DEI tenets. Project 30x30, where she wants 30% female Agents by 2030.

TENET Media
@watchTENETnow

...

“I look forward to a day... where diversity is just a part of this agency and it’s not even thought about.”

Secret Service Director Kimberly Cheatle boasts about the Secret Service’s commitment to DEI in leadership.

2:13 AM · Jul 14, 2024 · 300.1K Views

When someone posted a bio of Cheatle, detailing her previous tenure as Senior Director in Global Security at PepsiCo, responsible for security protocols in PepsiCo’s facilities in North America, Elon Musk came out with a zinger:

Elon Musk @elonmusk · 7m

So before being put in charge of protecting the PRESIDENT, she was guarding bags of Cheetos ...

Cernovich @Cernovich · 34m

Director of Secret Service

Cheatle

Kimberly Cheatle is the 27th Director of the U.S. Secret Service, sworn in to office September 17, 2022. She is responsible for successfully executing the agency's integrated mission of protection and investigations by leading a diverse workforce composed of more than 7,800 Special Agents, Uniformed Division Officers, Technical Law Enforcement Officers, and Administrative, Professional, and Technical personnel.

Prior to her appointment, Ms. Cheatle served as Senior Director in Global Security at PepsiCo, where she was responsible for

4.2K

9.9K

44K

1.6M

It forgets that Cheatle had a career of about 23 years at the Secret Service prior to her work with PepsiCo, the last 2 of which as Assistant Deputy Director. Dan Bongino points out that her tenure was anything but perfect, and that she has no place at the Secret Service. She was appointed as Director in 2022 by Biden, and the next year 45% of the agents resigned. Officially because of a workload that was too high. That they had an instance where an agent started to flip out and become violent during an assignment, had to be forced to the ground, held down, and disarmed, is of course irrelevant. As is the fact that the agent in question was a female with a background that made everyone question how she got accepted into the Secret Service. The answer, of course, is simple: DEI.

The physical readiness requirements for men and women within the Secret Service are also very different, where the female 'very good' category would be 'very poor' for the men. As if the need to protect someone changes simply based on the gender of the agents present. Raging insanity, but here we are. The Secret Service spokesperson denied, just as vehemently, that the new direction has undermined the agency's readiness. Of course.

Another problem is the reason for the replacement of the Secret Service agents with inexperienced agents.

Susan Crabtree ✓

@susancrabtree

This is the problem that my Secret Sources have cited: Secret Services resources were diverted to Jill Biden's event and away from Trump's because they followed agency protocol applying to Trump as a former president, according to two sources within the Secret Service community. There were also many supplemental agents from different field officers (not Trump's regular detail) providing security at the rally because Trump's regular detail has been overworked (some working 7 days straight), and only two counter-snipers.

But Trump is not just a former president -- he is the first in modern history to have run for president again -- and he has been the focus of several prosecutions and controversies (understatement intentional).

Who made the decision to divert the resources to Jill Biden's event?

First Lady Dr. Jill Biden and former President Donald Trump campaigning in Pittsburgh today cbsnews.com/pittsburgh/new... via @KDKA

But also this: not just Jill Biden, but also Kamala Harris, who visited Philadelphia that very same day!

The Library

Do you want to know how I know he's right? Because Jill Biden & Kamala Harris both went to Pennsylvania same time as Donald Trump's rally to make sure the only security left for Trump was the incompetent B team.

But there were fingerprints on this. Jill's. Kamala's. And ultimately whoever is REALLY running the Biden regime— that's who directed the Secret Service to not cover a building that was a perfect sniper's perch 130 meters from Donald Trump.

And Thomas Crooks didn't just walk in there without knowing which building, that there'd be a ladder waiting for him to climb up. That no one would kill him before he shot at Donald Trump.

Someone relayed that information to the assassin from the Secret Service.

Who?

There were fingerprints. That's why the FBI cleanup crew from Pittsburgh was called in. The same FBI cleanup crew that covered up Joe Biden's & Hunter Biden's classified documents problem.

There absolutely were fingerprints.

Who set this up?

👁 1271 Haro..., edited 10:34 PM

For the Secret Service Bureau of Pittsburgh to divert resources away from Trump, towards Jill Biden, would mean that there was a threat assessment to justify that. Who wrote that assessment, who signed off on that? The result is clear: a very drained and anemic shell of protection left for Trump, creating a perfect storm.

Susan Crabtree's later full claims were these, from her X account:

 New info from a source in the Secret Service community — Trump's usual protective Secret Service detail was worked so hard (working 7 days a week with no days off) that many of agents assigned Saturday were temporary replacements from different field offices.

This is not the usual protocol for sitting presidents and vice presidents but "typical" for former presidents, (although no former presidents have run again in modern history.)

"Trump has a permanent detail, however it's much smaller in the amount of bodies," the source said. "His detail has been worked so hard with all the travel that they're working 7 days a week with shift changes. so HQ sends in temp agents to supplement - not a good scenario. Mission Failure, IMHO."

 (cont.) I'm told the only permanent agent from trump's detail during the rally was SAIC (Special Agent In Charge) Kern, two sources within the Secret Service community told me. All others were temps. Pittsburgh USSS Field Office had a Jill Biden visit and designated a lot of resources to her, the source said. Also - the advance work only occurred one-day beforehand bc of a lack of resources.

Where were the resources?

The Pittsburgh USSS Field Office had a Jill Biden visit and designated a lot of resources to her.

"That is f---ing unbelievable to me," the source remarked.

Another Secret Service source says approval for the Counter Sniper Team was only granted the day before the rally - and that is not enough time for a two-man team to do their survey.

(Cont) ..."That's nowhere near enough time - a site like that should have had at least three Secret Service counter-sniper teams at the very least."

I'll make this correction - It's SAIC Curran, not Kern. I misheard his name.

This is despite a lot of claims that Trump's team repeatedly had asked for extra protection, but got denied each time.

Sean Davis ✓

@seanmdav

Subscribe

BREAKING: A source familiar with Trump's security detail tells @FDRLST that the former and future president's detail has been asking for beefed up protection and resources for weeks, but has been rebuffed time and again by Biden's DHS.

DHS, which oversees Secret Service protective detail "wasn't responsive to those requests" for more resources, the source said.

Was Biden's regime behind the attack, or did it deliberately do everything it could to allow it to happen?

Developing...

8:10 PM · 7/13/24 From Earth · 19K Views

The same is true for Robert Kennedy Jr., who only yesterday (Monday 15th) got approval, when Biden accepted Trump's request. The Secret Service spokesman vehemently denied that such requests were made.

What IS true, is that a core group of 9 democrats tried to take away ALL Secret Service protection from Trump, earlier this year. Called, of course, “The DISGRACED Former Protectees Act - or the Denying Infinite Security and Government Resources Allocated toward Convicted and Extremely Dishonorable Former Protectees Act.” Caps in the original...

Another weird element is this:

Why would they get such a tip to broadcast Trump live, for a rather small event such as Butler, PA? When the RNC Convention would start just 2 days later? All coincidences, of course.

The assassin himself poses a series of problems, too.

First, the simple question: how could he be spotted so early on, without any reaction from Law Enforcement? He was seen even earlier than first reported!

 Tim Pool
@Timcast Subscribe ...

wow, wtf???

BREAKING NEWS Trump shooter was 'spotted on roof 26 MINUTES before assassination attempt' as pressure mounts on Secret Service over botched security

Donald Trump's would-be assassin Thomas Matthew Crooks was spotted on the roof 26 minutes before he opened fire, a bombshell new report claims. Cops at the scene noticed Crooks, 20, on top of the building just 130 yards away from the rally stage and took two photos of him because he was acting suspiciously, sources told WPXI. It's not clear if he had the AR-style rifle on him when he was first seen or if he stayed on the roof for the whole time.

12:03 PM · Jul 15, 2024 · 210.8K Views

Dan Bongino, himself a former Secret Service agent, said in his podcast on Monday that police had spotted Thomas Matthew Crooks, the assassin, followed him, but 'lost track of him'. It is not clear if he already had his rifle, what made the police decide to follow him, how they managed to lose track of him, and how on earth they allowed Trump to proceed as if nothing was wrong.

The Post Millennial reported a similar story: "Law enforcement sources told the outlet that leading up to the assassination attempt on Trump, Crooks was spotted almost 30 minutes before the incident took place. The shooting took place at 6:11 pm and a member of Beaver County's ESU team had noticed a suspicious man on a nearby roof at around 5:45 pm. He had called it in and took a picture of Crooks."

When a local police officer did climb up on the roof, he simply retreated when threatened, without any other follow-up or attempt to distract or shoot the assassin. A serious misjudgement and dereliction of duty!

One officer climbed to the roof and encountered Crooks, who pointed his rifle at the officer. The officer retreated down the ladder and Crooks quickly took a shot toward former President Donald Trump, and that's when the U.S. Secret Service counter snipers shot him, said the officials who spoke to The Associated Press on condition of anonymity to discuss an ongoing investigation.

The assassin himself is also interesting.

He appeared in an advertisement for BlackRock of all places...

New York Post
@nypost · Follow

BlackRock pulls ad that featured Trump shooter Thomas Matthew Crooks trib.al/nlaNVtT

8:54 AM · Jul 15, 2024

2.7K

Reply

Share

Read 273 replies

The gun he used, a 5.56 AR-style rifle, was purchased by his father, a licensed behavioral therapist. The health records for the assassin were immediately pulled, to protect them from being leaked. This raises the question: was the assassin legally able to obtain a rifle himself, or did his father illegally buy that rifle in his stead, knowing he could not pass the required background check? Another question.

It is this whole series of problems, with inadequate protection, coincidental visits by both Jill Biden and Kamala Harris to Pennsylvania, even further eroding Trump's protective detail, replacing them with staff that is not sufficiently experienced and/or trained, lax behavior on the ground, no communication, spotting and then losing track of the shooter, without warning Trump's detail so they could remove Trump and keep him safe, as would be protocol when an armed suspect is on the loose and 'lost track of', etc., that seems just too much for many observers.

Sean Davis ✓
@seanmdav

Subscribe

Pretty crazy how an assassin was given a free shot at Donald Trump after Biden's debate collapse but right before Donald Trump announced his VP and was formally nominated as the GOP presidential candidate. It's almost as if the whole thing was engineered not just to eliminate Trump, but to require an entirely new ticket free of any Trump influence whatsoever.

And then it just so happened the shooter is the only person in the entire country without any social media or online footprint whatsoever. And the FBI, after whole minutes of effort, just couldn't figure out how to crack his phone. What a series of very strange coincidences.

11:15 AM · 15 Jul 24 · 28.9K Views

Another commentator had this to say:

Cynical Publius ✓
@CynicalPublius

OK, I need to step away after a few hours of hot and heavy posting, but I want to leave by reiterating the following thoughts:

1. I absolutely and positively do believe there was a government conspiracy to kill Trump. It was a conspiracy designed to leave zero fingerprints and provide impressive plausible deniability.
2. The first step in that conspiracy was to continually spread hatemongering, evil, fascist rhetoric about Trump being a "threat to democracy"; that rhetoric was deliberately staged literally for years across the entire Democrat/Media Complex. A primary purpose of this rhetoric was to motivate and inspire would-be assassins.
3. The second step in the conspiracy was to deliberately deny the Trump campaign adequate security resources, and what resources were provided were an incompetent B-team.

Are they right?

I don't know. There is no proof, at this point. None to prove it, but none to refute the suspicion, either. Too many irregularities are present, and the director of the Secret Service, Kimberly Cheatle, refused to come to the voluntary congressional hearing she was asked to come to. Doesn't look good. The Secret Service aims at a 'Zero Fail' benchmark. Which is to be expected: 1 mistake might mean the President of the United States gets killed! So no mistakes. Yet that day one mistake after mistake after another mistake was made, some absolutely egregious. Unbelievable. It is getting really hard to believe it was just incompetence. Not from the Secret Service, the guys who protect our most important leaders. Then again, some talk about weaponized incompetence. Perhaps they are right, which is a conspiracy of a whole other kind.

A big part is the shooter: did they 'train' or 'guide' or 'coax' him, as with the Withmer case? Or as with Sami Osmakac? No evidence, of course. But he did have a home-made bomb, and a remote trigger. Where did he get the material and know-how to build all that? He could well just be a loner, who snapped. A registered Republican, but that means nothing: too many times have Democrats switched registration in states with closed primaries to influence the primaries. AP reported this: "That was probably the case in Pennsylvania, where some Democrats openly encouraged their base to vote for the Republican candidate for governor, Doug Mastriano, whose extreme views they felt made him more beatable in November."

The assassin was described as withdrawn, but also as wearing covid masks long after the pandemic had ended: not something a typical conservative would do. A comment on a message board stated: "This dude was suggestable, as evidenced by wearing a mask all the time. A very compliant individual. Who complied with the rhetoric." And he did make a donation to a very left-leaning group, ActBlue.

One last point: when a crazed gunman shot Gabby Giffords in the head, Sarah Palin's crosshair map was blamed, as well as 'heated Tea Party rhetoric'. Of course, that the gunman had prior history with Giffords and had no relation with the Tea Party or with Palin (likely never saw that map), does not change that perception, nor that talking point.

Now, when the shoe is on the other foot, the media is demanding 'we all cool down', refusing to take any responsibility.

Lance Corporal Veteran @LCplE3Veter... · 12h ...

Know who started this rhetoric and we now see where it's led us to.

Joe Biden ✓
@JoeBiden

Follow

Donald Trump is a genuine threat to this nation.

He's a threat to our freedom. He's a threat to our democracy. He's literally a threat to everything America stands for.

10:42 AM · 28 Jun 24 · 6.8M Views

7,430 Reposts 2,982 Quotes 35.5K Likes

1,479 Bookmarks

George Takei  @GeorgeTakei · 12h

Trump remains an existential threat to democracy. We'll defeat him with ballots, not bullets.

 11K

 7.4K

 34K

 2.8M

 IT Guy reposted

IT Guy

@ITGuy1959

If you truly believe Donald Trump is an "existential threat to democracy" then you are saying it's beyond ballots.

And you are telegraphing to maniacs to take matters into their own hands.

Either stop the rhetoric or just say you want Trump dead. You can't have it both ways.

10:38 AM · 7/14/24 · 60K Views

↶ Annie Webber reposted

Jennifer Van Laar @jenvanlaar · 11h

...

Is that what created the assassin who shot at Trump?

No, I don't think so.

And I am good company. Christopher Rufo replied to a critic who tried to accuse him of an inconsistency in his positions, in regards to this very question of what causes radicalization. (His tweet)

The image is a screenshot of a Twitter thread. At the top, a tweet from Christopher F. Rufo (@realchrisrufo) is shown, dated 16 hours ago. The text of the tweet reads: "No, this isn't a contradiction. 'Stochastic terror' is a causal claim. I'm not arguing that the 'Trump is Hitler' rhetoric caused the shooting—motive is still unknown—but that it rationalizes violence. This can be before or after the fact. Rationalization ≠ causation." Below this is a reply from dr caitlin green (offense archaeologist) (@caitlinmoriah) dated Jul 13, with the text "then vs now". This reply contains a video player. The video player shows a split-screen comparison. On the left, a tweet from Christopher F. Rufo from 11/14/22 is displayed, with the text: "The concept of 'stochastic terrorism' has become the Left's new catch-all for mobilizing the domestic security state against its political opposition. It's a way to assign guilt through statistical abstraction, rather than the facts—and it's all a lie." Below the text is a video thumbnail showing three faces with red 'X' marks over their mouths, and the caption "The 'Stochastic Terror' Lie" with a source "From city-journal.org". On the right side of the video player, a portion of another tweet from Christopher F. Rufo is visible, dated 7/13/24, with the text: "I just returned from a camping trip... news. My prayers are with President Trump and his family. He needs to win in a landslide. Shame on the Biden Administration and the media for pushing the 'Trump is Hitler' rhetoric that rationalizes this kind of violence." The video player shows 5.6K views. Below the video player are engagement metrics: 41 replies, 243 retweets, 817 likes, and 3 bookmarks. At the bottom of the screenshot, the main tweet's engagement metrics are shown: 29 replies, 98 retweets, 749 likes, and 39K views.

The heated rhetoric Trump and his followers have been subjected to since Trump came down his golden escalator in 2016 has been constant, demonizing them all as existential threats. Often with 'rhetorical' calls to violence.

Trump's lawyer plays a video of Democrats and celebrities advocating vi...

Hearing so many top voices talk about violence, about the need to 'eliminate' an 'existential threat' to the 'very fabric of our country' and even 'of democracy itself', paints a picture where violence, even murder, is an acceptable method to answer such serious problem. Even now, the media is rationalizing the violence, blaming Trump for it!

So no, those claims about Trump being literally Hitler by themselves did not cause this attempt at Trump's life. The constantly repeated and even celebrated idea that violence and murder is justified (to save the nation!), sure did.

A cynical take, but not a wrong one, was this:

Clint Russell ✓
@LibertyLockPod

Follow

You know the country is in rough shape when there's an assassination attempt and the only real debate is to whether or not the government was in on it or are they just so fucking awful at even the most basic tasks that we can no longer tell the difference

It's time to fix this, ban DEI, and put meritocracy back center-stage.

I am not concerned about unity. Americans are much more united than they realize, and much more than our media, dividers par excellence, give them credit for.

MR. O. Ansah @presleyoagyamfi · 49m

MR. O. Ansah @presleyoagyamfi · 1h

Shots Fired at Donald Trump.

An attempt assassination.

650

Imran Khan Abbasi @ImranKhanAbbas1 · 1h

The saviour is bigger than the destroyer. May Allah be his protector!!!

2.2K

Marilyn Levinson @jacksmom43 · 52m

God gave us President Trump and today he saved him!

1.1K

Konner Veteto @Kontinuum41 · 1h

YESHUA IS SO GOOD PRAISE BE TO HIM FOR SAVING TRUMPS LIFE! I'm so grateful Trump is alive!

960

Nathan Cervera @nathan_cervera · 1h

Definitely God saved this man, my atheist view of this world has gone to COMPLETE ZERO after this. There were multiple shooters!

All is well.

403 Likes · 41 Restacks

← Previous

Next →

219 Comments

Write a comment...

Godparticle Godparticle Jul 16 Liked by ArnGrimR

Water tower...

https://x.com/I_Am_JohnCullen

LIKE (9) REPLY SHARE

6 replies by ArnGrimR and others

ChayoS. Jul 16 Liked by ArnGrimR

Great explanation of the events, my question is, why the building where the shooter was perched was not taken by the SS in first place? Why the Police Officer that first encounter the assassin didn't do anything but back down, instead of confronting him or at least call for attention?

 LIKE (24)  REPLY  SHARE

...

10 replies by ArnGrimR and others

217 more comments...

© 2024 ArnGrimR · Privacy · Terms · Collection notice
Substack is the home for great culture