

Reports From Venezuela: Maduro Possibly In Flight, Military and Police Removing Their Uniforms, Joining The People; Influencers Call It A CIA-Mossad Led Color Revolution To Get The Oil

Many Things Can Be True At Once

This morning, breaking news from Venezuela includes what appears to be police and military joining the (far as I can tell) people-led anti-Maduro protests, even removing their uniforms and bulletproof vests. Some are reporting that Maduro has fled the Miraflores Presidential Palace.

Those of us who still detest a central bank funded criminal, murderous hoax known as “socialism” are therefore, temporarily, happy. But not so fast. (I’ll get to it.)

BREAKING: Venezuelan military units are now greeting the protestors instead of stopping them

Nicolás Maduro is slowly losing the loyalty of his entire military

Socialism is dying

First—my plain old feelings:

I watched this short clip this morning, I had not had coffee, and was not “thinking.”

I started to feel a wave of emotion rise from my pelvis and make its way to my throat, then eyes. I was trying to repress it. (I can't say why.) But then my eyes filled with tears, I was gulping for air, I couldn't see anything; I finally surrendered to it and just cried, audibly.

This all happened before my head/mind could join in. Perhaps somebody will tell me why this is not a real, true, sound, or people-led freedom uprising, but at the moment, I am going to experience it as such because that sure is what it looks like to me.

Clip, again.

People chanting "Libertad!" gets me every time.

This clip shows police officers removing their uniforms and bulletproof vests.

More here. [post claims Maduro has fled Miraflores palace.]

I went to X to see how exactly I was not seeing what I thought I was, why I was duped. It was very easy to find the counter-flog:

The CIA loves a good statue topple. Currently, their world tour is working in Venezuela

Why does this all look so familiar?

Do not fall for this.

This is a classic Zionist Israel Jews manipulating media to spread their propaganda.

Benny Johnson is a Zionist Israel Jew puppet.

Zionists want Maduro gone so that they can take over 305 Billion barrels of oil.

Putin and Xi are supporting Maduro.

Venezuelans are kneeling in the streets and praying for relief against the current dictatorship

Pray for Venezuela 🙏

Hm.

But it's being enacted by hundreds of thousands of real Venezuelan people. Are they all induced by CIA/Mossad to cry for freedom and risk their lives to oust Maduro? Frequency technology? Do they not have sound reasons?

A friend who actually was on the ground in Venezuela to monitor the election, (left of center) texted me: "All the vote fraud is a lie. This is a color revolution to seize their oil."

Important to get all angles into the frame. (I'll name and quote my friend in future posts once I have asked her which of her pieces she'd like me to share.)

Meanwhile: The right of center take on the election:

They got too sloppy with this steal—you'll see details below from Thor Halvorssen, of HRF (Human Rights Foundation) who I actually worked for in 2007 for about a year. HRF focuses its human rights watches on abuses in the Americas, and is a unicorn among Human Rights groups for being "anti-communist." [Halvorssen's father is Norwegian, his mother Venezuelan.]

A regime employee in the tabulation room at the Centro de Cómputos takes a selfie of himself and his colleagues inadvertently revealing the government's screens showing a monumental defeat of Maduro in every state show. Absolute landslide for Edmundo and Maria Corina.

Such a crude and obvious fraud. My prediction is that the democratic governments of the world will express their disappointment and within a week they'll go back to doing business with Maduro and simply getting ready for the onslaught of another million refugees in the next six months.

The only hope here are the Venezuelans themselves. They are the only ones who can save this country. And they should do so with non-violence and somehow hack the minds of the military who can stop the militia and tell Maduro that it's time to go. 70 percent of Venezuelans are behind @MariaCorinaYA Machado. Her mandate is clear. The sovereign will of the people is on display.

The nerve of the Venezuelan regime... their fraud is so lazy and incompetent that when they went to fabricate Maduro's fraudulent "victory" they gave three candidates the exact vote percentage: 4.6% (the probability of this happening is infinitesimally small). And, predictably, they are so bad at arithmetic that the official vote tally adds up to more than 109% of votes cast. Most democratic governments are declaring that they view these elections as fraudulent. Dark days ahead.

It's 110 degrees in Granada these last days of July, and my A-C is weak, so I'm soaked in sweat and counting days till Aug 4 when the heat breaks. I take 1-3 ice baths a day—August is less hot than July.

Starting August 4th, and now that the book is done/done (2 days ago) I want to find a way to resume our Zoom activity in a way that does not derail. Maybe a 2 hour limit, and guests? I promise to work it out, it's just been too hot, and I have had a set back with my symptoms since I got here in late May. It might be the altitude? I'm trying new healing modalities, but I've learned to be careful what I share. We're all super-opinionated and I tend to quit too soon if symptoms flare during a new protocol. Only reason I bring it up is it has affected our Zoom plans.

Big Picture

I feel sometimes that sinking feeling that the “globalists” run both sides of everything and therefore it is foolish to “hope” for “freedom” making any kind of comeback, anywhere.

Still, we also know that despondency only pleases the devil.

Venezuela has been through so much hell, and I will be rooting for the people’s will to prevail, as I root for the same in the US, and everywhere.

When I was in Prague for the Velvet Revolution in November 1989, one of the most prominent (hand painted) signs read: Svobodné Volby. (Free Elections.)

Decades later, I learned that Soros was funding it, and Havel was a globalist puppet, or wound up being one?

All I can say is, I know what I saw. It was as “real” as real can be.

I was at Colombian border and witnessed much fakery by US operatives during last "People's Revolution." The people should own the resources and not multinational oil companies.

Who would replace Maduro? Answer: another imperial puppet! In any case, it is for Venezuelans to sort this out for themselves. CIA meddling will not bring any good outcome.
