How 20k Haitians Stormed Ohio to Take Jobs that Were Never Advertised

***Receipts at end of thread***

The Haitian Invasion of Ohio has created a lot of buzz. There are a lot of unexplained aspects of it that people find odd. One of these strange happenings is that locals...

reported that the jobs the Haitians came for were never advertised to the local population. So how did the Haitians find out about them?

It turns out that a network of federal grant recipient organizations have quietly seized control of nearly the entire job market in the US...

and work to ensure that openings remain "hidden" so that refugee's can take them ahead of American citizens. How many job openings remain hidden? The internal estimates of this network put the number of hidden openings at 80% of all available jobs.

EIGHTY PERCENT

The way that this network has seized control of the labor market of the United States is easy enough to understand. Firstly, it has positioned itself as a way to remove recruiting costs for employers. Next, it offers employers laborers who can work for lower wages by also...

providing it's "refugees" with a plethora of social welfare not available to a typical American worker. Finally, it can provide access to the entire global labor market by setting the conditions of "refugee" status to effectively cover anyone in the world.

If an employer needs nurses, janitors, programmers, police or literally any kind of worker the network can provide them to employers at a lower rate of pay than what an American citizen would require due to not having access to the same welfare benefits.

These globally sourced scab workers don't require health insurance and have all living expenses subsidized by federal programs. If the typical American had all their health, food, and housing costs covered they would also be able to work for a fraction of their existing wages.

Instead, they cover the cost of these global laborers by paying much much more for food, housing, and healthcare. Is this sustainable? If the trend of authoritarian communism continues to win, yes. If 80% of work opportunities are already exclusive to connected networks...

most of the public will soon have no choice but to work directly for government. The military recruiting crisis will be resolved by simply continuing to deny access to employment and driving up the cost of living for citizens.

Switchboard (resettlement network technical assistance) report:

"The project is 100% financed by federal funds." live-irc-switchboard.pantheonsite.io/wp-content/upl...

Switchboard is the hub that provides perfect insight into the plan. It is blunt and plainly states it's mission to outcompete American labor through networking with all employers to fill positions with "refugees" in as cut-throat a manner as possible.

The plan is simple and cruel - don't even let Americans see a job opening, apprenticeship application, or social program and instead fill every possible opening with global labor being subsidized with every possible form of social welfare.

Switchboard has to be blunt because it provides technical direction to every organization in the network. Read the report. Note the explicit acknowledgement that the economy is bad and competition for work is expected to be fierce for a long time.

You need to watch Mars Attacks! This film is vital to understand what is happening politically in the United States. The similarities to the current situation are eery to say the least.

The premise of the film is a war of the worlds in which humanity is interested in negotiating peace but the aliens are only interested in using that weakness against humanity. Sounding familiar?

***Blinken's Constitutional Crisis*** The US is hurtling toward civil war due to the actions of one man: Secretary of State Antony Blinken Read on to discover how 1 man has gone mad with power and threatens to destroy the USA >

The Refugee Act of 1980 was written under the assumption that it wouldn't be weaponized and gives the Secretary of State the power to sign a blank check for every refugee taken in by America. Antony Blinken is now using this power and funding to reshape the electorate of the US.

Despite language in the act explicitly instructing the SOS not to concentrate refugees in particular areas, Blinken is using his power to target his political opponents by putting vast numbers of refugees in red areas & tying their financial benefits to the success of Democrats.

Who Owns the Haitians? The so-called Haitian Invasion of Ohio has brought up many questions but one that keeps coming up more than any other is "How did they get there?" While liberals are desperately trying to pretend the Haitians flew North for the summer like the...

Springfield city park geese they are now famous for poaching, the truth is that they live at the mercy of private corporations. Perhaps the most powerful private corporation in the business of "refugees" is called the International Rescue Committee.

It probably seems odd that private corporations have essentially been given control of vast numbers helpless people. But, it is true. The US government has basically handed over control of the immigration system to private contractors. For example, according to...

International Rescue Committee details it's plan to capture 150 million "refugees" to seize control of government "STRATEGY 100" ***RECEIPTS AT END OF THREAD***

In a previous post I detailed a report from an organization called "Switchboard" that works on behalf of a "refugee" network to capture as many American jobs and social welfare benefits as possible. The International Rescue Committee is another node in this network and it has...

released a report detailing a strategy to achieve "power" through it's control of the global refugee population. The plan is simple - use refugees under the control of the IRC to manipulate democratic processes under the guise of altruism. What does this look like...
