

Flu Vaccines Are NOT Vaccines Per New CDC Flu Vaccine Campaign

Is the CDC hedging against the planned release of the H5N1 vaccines, knowing that these vaccines will receive full FDA approval without the review of any safety or efficacy data in humans or animals?

November 12, 2024: The 9th Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that petitioners have the right to challenge the CDC's claim that the COVID-19 injections are 'safe and effective vaccines,' because the shots don't protect against infection or transmission.

Per Jacobson vs. Massachusetts (the landmark trial that established the legally binding criteria for vaccines), vaccines must be proven to prevent infection and transmission (provide immunity), otherwise they are just palliative treatments to alleviate symptoms and not vaccines.

I created this image to visually explain what a palliative treatment for the flu is (reducing fever, aches, and chills). Advil is a palliative treatment. Palliative treatments reduce or eliminate symptoms, but do not address the underlying cause of a disease or infection.

This past June, Health Freedom Defense Fund argued and won (convinced) the 9th Circuit judges that the COVID-19 injections were neither safe, nor effective vaccines.

“LAUSD only provides a CDC publication that says “COVID-19 vaccines are safe and effective.” But “safe and effective” for what? LAUSD implies that it is for preventing transmission of COVID-19 but does not adduce (present) judicially noticeable facts that prove this.” - Judge Nelson, 9th Circuit

At this stage, we must accept Plaintiffs’ allegations that the vaccine does not prevent the spread of COVID-19 as true. Twombly, 550 U.S. at 556. And, because of this, Jacobson does not apply. LAUSD cannot get around this standard by stating that Plaintiffs’ allegations are wrong. Nor can LAUSD do so by providing facts that do not contradict Plaintiffs’ allegations. It is true that we “need not [] accept as true allegations that contradict matters properly subject to judicial notice.” Sprewell v. Golden State Warriors, 266 F.3d 979, 988 (9th Cir. 2001). But even if the materials offered by LAUSD are subject to judicial notice, they do not support rejecting Plaintiffs’ allegations. LAUSD only provides a CDC publication that says “COVID-19 vaccines are safe and effective.” But “safe and effective” for what? LAUSD implies that it is for preventing transmission of COVID-19 but does not adduce judicially noticeable facts that prove this.

New CDC Campaign Promotes Flu Vaccines as a Treatment for Flu Symptoms and NOT for Immunity Against Infection or Transmission

It appears that now that the CDC has been caught worldwide misrepresenting the COVID-19 injections as ‘safe and effective vaccines’, the federal agency is apparently openly promoting the flu vaccines as treatments for symptom relief from the flu and not as vaccines that provide immunity.

I wonder if the CDC's Monkeypox Czar, Demetre Daskalakis, was heavily involved in the creative direction of the CDC Flu Vaccine Campaign due to the frequent use of images of cats, kittens, and unicorns.

An Opportunistic Play on Peanut's Tragic Death?

Demetre Daskalakis and the CDC debuted this ad on their X feeds on November 6, 2024, just a few days after social media blew-up covering the story of how Peanut, a pet squirrel, was seized by NY State officials from the upstate home and animal rescue ranch of Mark Longo and then killed.

I get converting wild cats to house kittens or a rhino to a toy unicorn to convey the message of 'wild to mild', but what does a moose have to do with a squirrel? Does the CDC not know that squirrels are wild animals? Seems like an opportunistic play on Peanut's tragic death.

Do The CDC Flu Vaccine Ads Matter?

In my opinion, yes. Any savvy BioPharma marketer knows that every word and every image in a campaign conveys a message and the FDA interprets and regulates every word and image used. Large wild animals and deadly insects portray severity of an illness's symptoms and even death. Baby animals and stuffed animals represent harmlessness. IMO, these CDC ads are like a serial killer's hidden confession notes.

Ironically, Flumist is using a grizzly bear to represent both the devastating effects of the flu and the (devastating) effects of the Flumist vaccine.

Long story short, the CDC is openly promoting that the COVID-19 injections aren't the only vaccines that are neither safe, nor effective at preventing infection or transmission.

Following the science involves the use of double-speak, double-think, and blatant lying to the American people.

We need to stop making excuses for some of the leaders of our nation’s 3-letter agencies who appear to have sociopathic tendencies and are violating federal laws under the color of law, because they act as if they care about us and our children.

Your enemy shakes hands and greets you like an old friend, all the while plotting against you. When he speaks warmly to you, don’t believe him for a minute. He’s just waiting for the chance to rip you off.

No matter how shrewdly he conceals his malice, eventually his evil will be exposed in public.

Vaccines. Safe and effective.

Ingredients at different points: Graphene, spike protein, SV40.

Nano-processors, quantum dots, per David Nixon et al. Substack.

Sure, and I'll buy a vaccine from a one-eyed hunchback clutching a bottle marked "Poison".
