Criminal referral requests have been formally filed in seven U.S. states—Arizona and Pennsylvania being the latest—accusing Fauci and others of heinous crimes, including murder, medical coercion, and even terrorism stemming from their COVID-era policies and decisions.

Arizona and Pennsylvania have joined Florida, Texas, Louisiana, Missouri, and Oklahoma.

The Vires Law Group and the Former Feds Group Freedom Foundation submitted the explosive referrals this week, urging state attorneys general to pursue criminal investigations into Fauci and his pandemic-era cohorts, according to Nicolas Hulscher, MPH.

The filings represent a growing grassroots and legal effort to hold COVID-19 tyrants accountable for the damage wrought by deadly hospital protocols, the suppression of early treatments, and the coercive push for experimental vaccines.

The list of individuals is:

- Dr. Anthony Fauci – Former NIAID Director
- Dr. Deborah Birx – Former White House COVID Coordinator
- Dr. Rochelle Walensky – Former CDC Director
- Dr. Francis Collins – Former NIH Director
- Dr. Cliff Lane – Deputy Director, NIAID
- Dr. Stephen Hahn – Former FDA Commissioner
- Dr. Janet Woodcock – Principal Deputy Commissioner, FDA (Arizona-specific)
- Dr. Peter Hotez – Baylor vaccine promoter (Arizona-specific)
- Dr. Robert Redfield – Former CDC Director
- Dr. Peter Daszak – EcoHealth Alliance president and Wuhan collaborator
- Dr. Ralph Baric – UNC virologist linked to gain-of-function research
- Dr. Rick Bright – Former BARDA Director
- Hospital administrators and care providers across Arizona and Pennsylvania

The referral letters outline a jaw-dropping list of charges, including:

- Murder
- Negligent Homicide
- Involuntary Manslaughter
- Medical Coercion and Abuse
- Kidnapping
- Human Trafficking for Forced Labor
- Racketeering
- Operating a Corrupt Organization
- Terrorism

In February, seventeen state attorneys general formally requested aid from Republican congressional leaders to investigate the origins of COVID-19 and explore possible legal actions against Dr. Anthony Fauci at the state level.

This concerted effort, spearheaded by South Carolina Attorney General Alan Wilson, aims to circumvent the preemptive pardon issued by Joe Biden on his last day in office, which sought to shield Fauci from federal prosecution.

The state attorneys general emphasize that the federal pardon does not preclude state-level legal actions and are actively seeking further details from Congress to facilitate state investigations and potential prosecutions.
